Cassiar Party Has Returned to City

Mr. J. H. Hawthornthwaite and Associates Arrive Back After Season's Investigations

Mr. J. H. Hawthornthwaite, president of the Stewart Consolidated Gold Mines who, with a party representing the company has been in the Cassiar country for the greater part of the season, has returned to the city. A section of the party arrived from the North some weeks ago. Mr. Hawthornthwaite, Mr. Thos. Budge, Mr. J. H. Gray and Mr. W. M. Hawthornthwaite, however, remained behind until the close of navigation on the Stikine River in order to make further investigations in connection with the holdings that have been acquired by the company. Placer holdings and quartz propositions were well investigated by the party and the engineers, Messrs. Budge and Gray, are compiling their reports covering the work. These will shortly be available for the directors. Mr. Hawthornthwaite is well satisfied with the results of the season's investigations in the Cassiar.

British Communists Are Again Remanded

Twelve Leaders Accused of Sedition Are Given Liberty on Bail

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Twelve leaders of the Communist party in Great Britain were arraigned in the Bow Street police court today charged by the crown prosecutor with sedition.

Mr. Travers Humphreys, acting for the public prosecutor, declared that if the establishment of a proletarian dictatorship should be effected by lawful means he would not maintain it was a crime to advocate it, but he held that dissemination of Communist doctrine was illegal because it aimed at overthrowing the civil government by force, preached class war and involved disaffection among the armed forces of the crown.

The defendants were allowed bail and the case was adjourned to October 27.

Mr. Travers Humphreys, appearing for the director of public prosecutions, said the defendants were being prosecuted for sedition and principal executive officers of two illegal organizations—the Communist Party of Great Britain and the Young Communist League of Great Britain, both of which he declared received their orders from Moscow.

Incited to Mutiny
Mr. Travers asserted that the defendants also had attempted to seduce armed forces to mutiny and had openly advocated civil war.

During the morning a man in the crowd outside the court persistently waved a Red flag.

This was taken from him by the police and a struggle followed. The man was arrested.

The defendants were not being tried because they called themselves Communists, Mr. Travers continued, but because in view of the prosecution all persons who disseminate by word of mouth or by published writings doctrine of Communism are liable to trial for sedition.

He quoted extracts from books and pamphlets issued by the two organizations urging among other things that the workers smash the capitalist state and organize soviets. The young workers, he declared, must be educated for such a struggle.

"I Was Asleep," Says Morris, Denying Guilt

This sensational statement, cause of a stir of excitement amongst the spectators crowding the galleries, was made in response to the questions of one of the jurors, in a voice surcharged with emotion.

Stromkins, who was taken from the four and one-half hours of grueling examination yesterday by Mr. Joseph Oliver, counsel for Morris, he took the stand at 10 o'clock in the morning, was the target for a barrage of questions for the ensuing three hours and then resumed his position in the witness box for ninety minutes in the afternoon.

He was confident for the first ninety minutes, smiling and sneering at Mr. Oliver. Once in the afternoon he broke into downright laughter and drew a scathing rebuke from the counsel for the defence.

Court Adjourns
After Morris had finished his testimony at 3 o'clock last night, court was adjourned until 9:30 o'clock this morning, when counsel are expected to make their addresses to the jury and Mr. Justice Murphy to sum up the case.

Every available inch of space in the courtroom was jammed with people who, Mr. Justice said, had stood at 8 o'clock last night.

"Do you admit being on the Denman II on the night of September 15, 1924?" asked Mr. Oliver.

Composedly, amidst a breathless silence, Morris replied, "Yes."

Then he began his story. He had been lying across the bed of a St. James Hotel room, asleep, the night of the alleged murder, when "Cannonball" Baker had awakened him and told him that they were going home and that Stromkins was going to take them.

They had gone by taxi to "the boat-house." There Stromkins had taken Baker aboard the Denman II and then returned for Morris.

Slept Till Morning
"I went to sleep in the back of the boat and when I woke up, at about 4 a.m., we were about three miles out of Anacortes," the prisoner declared. "In the value taken from the St. James Hotel, he swore, there were but two coats and shirts and dirty clothes. He had not seen Harp, yacht club steward, before boarding the Denman II, he said.

At Anacortes, Baker had hired a motor car. They had driven to Seattle, arriving at about 10 o'clock in the same morning. Accused had gone first to the Dix Hotel and then to the Crystal Pool for lunch. Then he had gone to the J. & M. Transfer Company office. Before going to the Crystal Pool he had checked with a tailor named McDonald. He had been drinking gin until about 3 or 4 o'clock the next morning.

"You have heard what Stromkins said of your part in the alleged murder of Captain Gillis?" asked Mr. Oliver.

"I don't know," he replied. "I don't know what he said."

His emotional outburst created a stir of excitement in the crowded galleries.

Reading from a list of questions in his hand the juror continued his interrogation.

"Do we understand that you knew Paulsen in Manitoba?" he asked.

Stromkins—Yes, in Northern Manitoba.

Juror—From December 13 to 16, were any of the four of you under the influence of liquor?

Stromkins—I could not say—we had liquor with us a lot.

Juror—Were any of you under the influence?

Stromkins—I wasn't—I couldn't say anyone was drunk.

Juror—Did Baker dominate the gang?

Stromkins—He told them what to do.

Juror—Were the others afraid of him?

Stromkins—I was.

Juror—Was the accused?

Stromkins—I couldn't say.

The witness was then permitted to leave the stand.

Captain H. H. Pariseau, of the Dominion Government Hydrographic Survey, was called and described tides and the conditions of the sea bottom on the east coast of Hailu Island where the Beryl G. is alleged to have been abandoned and the body of Captain Gillis is alleged to have been thrown overboard.

Boulder's Cover Ocean Bed
It had been impossible to find that body, Captain Pariseau declared, in a search carried on from December 1 to 24. "The sea bottom, in the vicinity was covered with barnacle-encrusted boulders.

Under cross-examination, Captain Pariseau described the movement of tides that would have brought the derelict Beryl G. off Turn Point, where she was picked up by the lighthouse-keeper.

No Sara Drainage, Lopes Island, swore that Stromkins had bought gasoline at her ranch on Lopes Island between the hours of 1 and 5 a.m. September 17, 1924.

Mrs. Gillis, widow of Captain Gillis, then took the stand and told in clear, calm tones that the last letter she had received from her husband was dated September 11, 1924.

Mr. Johnson indicated that the case for the crown was rested.

Defence Witnesses Called
Counsel for the defence then explained that owing to lack of funds he had only two witnesses to call for the defence. These had come forward voluntarily to testify. They would swear that Morris had been in

A pack saddle contest among the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, one of the events of their recent annual ride and pow-wow. The riders, this year, blazed a new trail

"The man must be dreaming or crazy," Morris replied.

Stromkins Partly Correct
Under cross-examination by Mr. Johnson, Morris swore that everything Stromkins had said with regard to the accused's activities in and around Victoria, including the expedition in search of liquor up the West Coast, was substantially true up to the point when he had boarded the Denman II on September 15.

He admitted he had come to Victoria with the purpose of taking what-ever liquor he could find in any place. He denied stoutly that he knew anything of the alleged murder of Captain Gillis and asserted that he had not been in the vicinity of the alleged murder of Captain Gillis.

He said that he had not seen Beryl G. liquor from the Canadian Islands to the United States side.

do you explain Clausen's testimony to the effect that you did?" asked Mr. Johnson.

"I can't," replied the prisoner.

Morris would not say that he had been "blind drunk" on the night of the alleged murder, September 15.

"I had been drinking," was his off-putting explanation of his condition.

No one had ever mentioned the Beryl G. in his presence and he would not even recognize the boat if he were to see her.

Testimony Concluded
He had intended to return to Seattle after the West Coast trip on Saturday, September 13, but he had not gone there on the Dolphin from began, Mr. Joseph Oliver elicited the information that on the trip up the West Coast in search of liquor caches Morris had never once had an offensive weapon in his hand, although, each time the men had gone ashore, Baker had carried the same revolver he had chosen on the night of the alleged murder, Harry Morris, brother of the accused, had taken the forty-five automatic and Rowash had carried the bulldog pistol.

Counsel for the defence then attacked Stromkins' testimony as to when the guns were brought aboard his boat, the Denman II, comparing his answers from the stand with his answers given at the preliminary hearing.

On the evening of the alleged murder, Stromkins swore he had returned to Cadboro Bay from Discovery Island just as Rowash had signalled him from shore. Harp, Yacht Club steward, had yelled to him that he was wanted on shore. He had rowed Rowash out to the Denman II and had telephoned Mrs. Feaney, Hailu Island, who had told Stromkins that Baker was looking for him.

Then witness had returned to the Yacht Club, boat-house and had chatted with Harp for about an hour until Baker and the prisoner had appeared. Whereupon the Denman II had set out for Sidney Island with the four men aboard.

Object Admitted
Baker, Stromkins testified, had remarked three or four times on the trip between Cadboro Bay and Sidney Island that they were bent on hijacking the Beryl G.

Stromkins denied that he would have failed to see the dinghy, with accused, Baker and Rowash, aboard, touch shore before entering the cove in which lay the Beryl G.

When the Denman II had approached the Beryl G., witness had recognized Morris on the deck of the latter craft, when twenty yards away, by reason of the yachting cap he wore, previously taken from the value on the Denman II.

Perpetrator questioned by Mr. Oliver as to the way in which he had identified the accused at that distance, Stromkins replied:

"By his general look. I knew it was Morris—the cap and the brown suit."

Mr. Oliver—You said he wore a brown suit?

Stromkins—No, he was wearing a blue suit with stripes.

On Thursday Stromkins had testified that Morris had been garbed in a blue suit "with stripes."

Statements Contradictory
Asked who had dragged the body of Captain Gillis on deck, Stromkins replied:

"Baker and Rowash."

Mr. Oliver—Did you ever swear that Baker and the accused had dragged the body on deck?

Stromkins—No.

Mr. Oliver—Never?

Stromkins—Well, if I did, it was not true.

Mr. Oliver referred to a transcript of the evidence Stromkins gave at the preliminary hearing. There it was found Stromkins had sworn that Baker and Morris were the men who had dragged the body on deck.

"You've sworn to two contradictory statements," accused Mr. Oliver. "I must have misunderstood the question," declared Stromkins. "Morris was sitting beside me on my boat."

Morris had remarked to witness: "The cold-blooded murderers!" At this point court was adjourned for the luncheon interval.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23.—Pending the hearing of Owen Baker's appeal by the Supreme Court of Canada, James Lawrence, on instructions of R. D. Harvey, counsel for Rowash, has wired the Minister of Justice for a reprieve for Rowash.

Mr. Lawrence has asked for an extension of time within which to file a notice of appeal on behalf of Rowash. In the telegram, Mr. Lawrence has asked the Minister of Justice whether he desires that counsel should be ap-

Seattle on September 16 at an hour they would name.

Later, the prisoner, himself, would take the stand and explain his connection, if any, with the atrocious offence alleged.

Albert McPherson, Seattle, teamster, swore that he had known Morris for several years. He had seen Morris in the evening or late afternoon of September 16, 1924. Witness was sure that he had seen Morris at 8 o'clock that evening. He might have seen Morris in the morning. He believed Morris was in his office that morning. Witness had given Morris a day's pay for working in his office, 2923 2nd Avenue, Seattle, Washington.

He said that Morris might very well have been employed as an assistant drayman earlier in the day. He and Morris had spent the night together, drinking. Morris had secured the liquor, which was gin.

Cross-examined by Mr. Johnson, McPherson swore he had been under the influence of liquor, more or less, all day. The distance from Anacortes to Seattle, via Mount Vernon, was a trip of ninety-two miles and ordinarily required a two and one-half hour motor run.

Earl Ring, Commodore Hotel, Seattle, swore that he had sold Morris a bottle of gin in Seattle at about 5 p.m. September 16, 1924, and had given him two more bottles of the same liquor during the ensuing night.

Testimony Attacked
Continuing his cross-examination of Stromkins when the morning's session began, Mr. Joseph Oliver elicited the information that on the trip up the West Coast in search of liquor caches Morris had never once had an offensive weapon in his hand, although, each time the men had gone ashore, Baker had carried the same revolver he had chosen on the night of the alleged murder, Harry Morris, brother of the accused, had taken the forty-five automatic and Rowash had carried the bulldog pistol.

Arrangements for International Golden Rule Sunday Observance Here on December 6 in His Hands

War Victims to Be Assisted

International Golden Rule Sunday, which falls this year on December 6, is an international institution which has the endorsement of the council of the League of Nations, President Calvin Coolidge, as well as prominent British and Canadian citizens. It is utilized by all the societies and organizations which are working in the Near East to relieve the orphans, widows and refugees—the aftermath of the Great War.

A Sunday dinner is proposed on the date named of orphanage fare which every Canadian family is asked to observe, with the difference in cost donated to the work of the said relief societies.

Lieutenant-Governor Walter C. Nichol has invited Mayor Carl Pendray to organize this work in Victoria. He will be unable to accept the request and the mayor has asked Alderman John I. Mara to act in his stead. The latter has agreed to do so.

Alderman Mara will shortly communicate with a number of public organizations of the city and request them to appoint representatives to serve on this committee.

In undertaking this mission, Alderman Mara and his committee will, it is hoped, confer a benefit upon the family life of their own community as well as upon those in the Near East who are wholly dependent upon the bounty of the outside world.

Mrs. Risley Met Death by Burns While Alone

Coroner's Jury Reaches Conclusion That No One But Victim of Flames Was Responsible for Fatality

Fire Is Not Explained

The inquest conducted yesterday into the death of Mrs. Harry Risley, late of 624 Highway 10, was held by Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, resulted in the jury finding that she came to her death accidentally by burning. The evidence showed that the fire had started Tuesday night, in some way in the kitchen, that the woman's clothes had taken fire and that she had rushed out of the house, leaving the side of the building only to succumb as a result of the severe burning she sustained about her body. She was alone at the time, it appeared, and when her husband and daughter returned at later hours the house was full of smoke, but Mrs. Risley was nowhere to be seen. Her body was not found until the next morning, Wednesday, when it was discovered by the husband outside the building.

The inquest was concerned only with discovering the cause of death. The cause of the fire, which appeared to have been in the kitchen was not a matter that came under review at the inquest other than to ascertain that there had been no foul play connected with the death of the woman. The evidence showed that in the kitchen turpentine and varnish had been brought in from the woodshed. The lock of the shed door where these items were usually kept had been broken open. No explanation was forthcoming as to why the inflammable materials were taken to the kitchen, nor how the fire started.

Burns Caused Death

The evidence of Dr. Allan Fraser, who performed the post-mortem, showed that there were no marks of violence upon the woman's body. She had been very badly burned, especially about the arms and the shoulders. Death, in his opinion, had been due to the burns. There was a congested condition of the lungs, which could be explained by the inhaling of fumes.

Mrs. Harry Risley, the husband of deceased, said he had left home early in the evening and had gone to the theatre. Before he left, he had gone with a friend to the Coors and Floras and had a few drinks of beer. He did not get home until after midnight. When he entered the house, he saw a turpentine bottle and a varnish bottle in the sink. These had been kept in the woodshed and the key to the shed was kept in the other part of the house. The lock of the woodshed showed it had been broken. There was no fire in the kitchen. There was no one in the house when he got there, but Mrs. Seaton, a daughter of Mrs. Risley, came in at 1:45 from the residence, proceeding to Oaklands Gospel Hall, where an impressive service was conducted at 2 o'clock by Mr. Charles Bowen, assisted by Mr. Duncan Kieracher and Mr. Blackstaff, of Nanaimo. There was a very large attendance of friends and many beautiful floral designs covered the casket and hearse, showing the esteem in which the late Mr. Lamb was held. The hymns sung were "Some Day the Silver Chord Will Break," "I Have Seen the Face of Jesus," and "Over With the Lord." The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. John Thompson, George Galloway, George Stewart, Alexander Hurl, Leon Ekman and Ernest Vale. The body was laid to rest at Ross Bay cemetery.

LAMB—The funeral of the late Mr. Thomas Lamb took place yesterday afternoon at 1:45 from the residence, proceeding to Oaklands Gospel Hall, where an impressive service was conducted at 2 o'clock by Mr. Charles Bowen, assisted by Mr. Duncan Kieracher and Mr. Blackstaff, of Nanaimo. There was a very large attendance of friends and many beautiful floral designs covered the casket and hearse, showing the esteem in which the late Mr. Lamb was held. The hymns sung were "Some Day the Silver Chord Will Break," "I Have Seen the Face of Jesus," and "Over With the Lord." The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. John Thompson, George Galloway, George Stewart, Alexander Hurl, Leon Ekman and Ernest Vale. The body was laid to rest at Ross Bay cemetery.

There had been cross words between witness and Mrs. Seaton, as he believed she knew where Mrs. Risley was.

Husband Finds Body

Mrs. Risley did not know of anyone being there during the evening with his wife. After a while he had gone to bed and the next morning, Wednesday, he discovered her body at the side of the house, with the clothes practically all burned off. He notified the police.

Constable Clark, who had been called to the place, said there were evidences of fire about the sink, and several of the rooms were in a state of disorder.

Mrs. Norretta Seaton, a daughter of Mrs. Risley, said she had gone out earlier in the evening with Mr. Wilfrid Nicholls. When she returned her mother was alone. They had telephoned a soldier at the barracks and had had a few drinks. She had gone out again with Mr. Nicholls and when they returned after midnight Mrs. Risley was there. She and the latter had had some words and he had ordered her to take her things away from the house.

Drinks Taken

Mr. Nicholls corroborated this evidence and said that Mrs. Risley had had a few drinks. When he returned with Mrs. Seaton about one o'clock there was a smell of smoke in the place.

Bombardier A. C. Ross testified that he had been telephoned for by Mrs. Seaton about 9:10 o'clock and asked to come over as the woman was having a little party. He went over, but was there only about half an hour. They had about two drinks while he was there. Mrs. A. W. Seaton, who had been called as a taxi driver to take Mrs. Seaton on her various trips during the evening, testified to various movements.

"No reduction in next year's taxes in Victoria can be attained unless the taxpayers pay the current year's taxes," stated Mr. Edwin C. Smith, City Treasurer, at the City Council yesterday. "It is most imperative that the 1925 taxes be met, in order that the city will not have to levy in 1926 for any amount of unpaid taxes of the present year."

The City Treasurer pointed out that collection of the 1925 general taxes was progressing at a most satisfactory rate. This year has found a larger number of taxpayers paying their bills earlier than in former years.

The tax levy for 1925 is $1,782,803.25, and of that amount $653,370.55, up to and including yesterday, has been paid this year into the city coffers.

Last year experienced the largest percentage of general taxes paid by city taxpayers in any year since the war, there being no less than 54.92 per cent of taxes collected. Indications point to this figure of tax collections being exceeded this year.

All the 1925 Victoria taxes must be paid at the City Hall by a week from today, October 31, otherwise a penalty of eight per cent flat will be added to unpaid taxes on November 1, 1925.

Taxpayers who pay their taxes today or early next week will be able to secure much better service at the City Hall than if they leave the matter until the last two days of next week. There is always a big line-up of people wishing to pay taxes on the last two days, and they are naturally subjected to more inconvenience than if they paid their bills right away.

Another $50,000 was paid off the civic bank loan yesterday, Mr. Smith stated, thus bringing the amount of the loan down to $140,000, which is a figure unapproached at this time of the financing year since 1911. The city, accordingly, has attained a low record in bank accommodation.

Prizes Awarded To Competitors At Radio Show

J. T. Ball Wins Silver Cup Donated by Daily Colonist for Best Constructed Set in Show

Exhibit Continues Today

Judging the amateur and professional classes of the exhibits at the radio exhibition being held in the banquet hall of the Crystal Garden took place yesterday when the awards were made. In most of the classes many entries were sent in and the judges had their work cut out picking the winners.

All afternoon and evening crowds continued to throng the exhibition and the attendance mark for the two days has been greatly increased over that of last year. The show will continue this afternoon and evening until midnight.

Radio prizes are being offered by the Victoria Radio Club for the five best guesses of Victoria's hours of strong sunshine for the month of October. Radio fans of this city and other parts were informed of this offer through the medium of station CPCT last night and the rules call for the entries to be sent postmarked not later than that of October 26. The competition is open to anyone and letters or postcards are to be addressed to radio station CPCT, Victoria.

Averages Given

In order to give the competitors some idea of the averages of sunshine for this city, figures have been obtained from Mr. Napier Denison, superintendent of Gonzales Observatory. The average sunshine for the 181 hours, or an average of about six hours per month. The month of Victoria experienced 227 hours of bright sunshine. The competition is a unique one and officials of the club are anxious to see the results.

The prizes for the competition are as follows: 1. Freshman kit, donated by the Western Canada Radio Supply Co.; 2. Junior kit, donated by J. G. Prior & Co., Ltd.; 3. Pirelli Companion kit, donated by McLennan-McFrey, of Vancouver; 4. Spitzer loud speaker, donated by the Radio Shop; 5. Electric toaster, donated by the B. C. Electric Railway Company, Ltd.

J. T. Ball was the winner of the handsome silver cup donated by The Colonist for the best constructed set in the show.

The reception of the concert last night which was broadcast through loud speakers was exceedingly good and very little interference was found. Tonight the concert will be repeated and several of the larger Western stations will be broadcast.

Fletcher Bros. supplied a very enjoyable concert to the visitors last night. The programme was put on the air through station CPCT and was greatly enjoyed by listeners-in. Professor Howlright's mandolin orchestra and several well-known artists contributed and their efforts were loudly applauded.

City Treasurer Reports Satisfactory Collection of Current Year's Taxes—May Exceed 1924 Figure

City and District

Vice-President Elected—At the meeting of the Tourist Trade Group of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, it was decided to elect a vice-president. Mr. Frank Waring was unanimously selected for the post.

Home-Cooking Sale—This morning, through the courtesy of David Spencer, Limited, the ladies of Our Lady of Lourdes Parish, under the convener'ship of Mrs. Gordon Evans, are holding a home-cooking sale in Spencer's basement.

Island Tour Continued—Mr. G. H. Halse, president of the B.C. Telephone Company, who is making a tour of the island in company with officials, proceeded to Courtenay and on his return is expected to cross to Vancouver from Nanaimo.

Circulars Are Successful—The green covered circulars which have recently been distributed by the Publicity Bureau have already elicited numerous inquiries concerning Victoria and its industrial and residential possibilities from people in many parts of Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Buchart Thanked—The Tourist Trade Group of the Chamber of Commerce at its meeting yesterday passed a resolution heartily thanking Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Buchart for their generosity in opening up the gardens during the Summer to the tourists who came to the city.

Publicity Meeting—On Monday the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau will meet for the transaction of business. There will be a presentation of 12:15, followed by the consideration of the necessary business looking to the formulation of the campaign that may be undertaken for the next few months.

V.M.D. Employees Addressed—Mr. W. M. Ivel, Liberal candidate for Victoria, spoke yesterday morning at the Victoria Machinery Depot, arguing that with the development of Victoria as a port, due to the construction of elevators and a lumber assembly plant and expansion of the overseas trade, the industries engaged in ship repair and construction would progress.

Steam Plant Used—The necessity of conserving the water supply at Jordan River, owing to the drought, in order not to curtail supply to customers of light and power, has induced the B. C. Electric Railway Company to start up its steam plant at Brentwood. This plant, which is maintained as an auxiliary for emergency purposes, will help considerably in the generation of electricity.

Zoning for Safety—The question of safety zoning on the streets will not be urged by the tourist trade group at the Chamber of Commerce meeting in so far as it applies to street railway traffic. This course was decided upon at the meeting yesterday. It was pointed out that investment in the street railway is too narrow to allow for any elaborate zoning scheme and that the impression prevailed that it was not necessary.

In Mr. Dickie's Interest—Mrs. N. Mathews, of "Stoney Hill," Cedar Hill Road, has kindly loaned her home to the ladies of the district for a meeting in the interest of Mr. C. H. Dickie, Conservative candidate in the Nanaimo riding, Monday, October 26, 7:30 p.m. Miss Lottie Bowron and Mr. J. Hinchcliffe, M.P., will address the meeting. Hon. T. G. Coventry, M.P.P., will occupy the chair. All are welcome, and tea will be served.

Open Meetings Favored—The tourist trade group will recommend to the directors of the Chamber of Commerce that each month there be two meetings open to the public. One of these, it will be recommended, shall be a forum meeting to be held in the evening and the other a luncheon meeting held at noon. It will also be suggested that the social side shall not be overlooked and that this provision be made in connection with some of the meetings.

Trafalgar Sunday—Sunday, October 25, being "Trafalgar Sunday," a special evening service will be held at the City Temple, Dr. C. H. Davies' address will be on "Canada Expects." The Boys' Naval Brigade Band will play some special selections after the service. The band programme will be as follows: March, "Headway"; overture, "Bright Star"; selection, "Wear a White Star"; march, "The Quakerette"; overture, "Magna"; selection, "Rosary"; march, "Success." God Save the King.

Winter Tourist Concerts—The question of the winter entertainments to be accorded the tourists who come to the city for the winter months has not been finally decided upon. A committee of the Tourist Trade Group has had the matter up with the Crystal Garden management with the idea of arranging for these entertainments to be held in the Garden. Certain improvements are under consideration at the Garden and pending decision on that point no definite plans are proposed and the matter stands over until next meeting.

Commercializing Trade—Mr. Frank Waring, at the meeting of the tourist trade group of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, suggested that before the next meeting of the organization thought should be given to the subject of devising means for the development of the commercial side of the tourist business in the city to the best advantage. Local curios were put forward as a means of deriving benefits. Mr. H. Hooper referred to the magnesite deposits available within easy reach and which could be utilized both in an ornamental and in a practical way.

International Visit—The officers and members of Mount Dallas Lodge, No. 35, I.O.O.F., at Friday Harbor, San Juan Island, will pay a fraternal visit to Victoria Lodge No. 1, I.O.O.F., of this city, at a special meeting of that Lodge to be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The visitors will bring with them three candidates, on whom the second degree will be conferred. The members of Columbia Lodge, No. 2, and Dominion Lodge, No. 4, have been invited to join in the reception of the visitors, and a cordial invitation is extended to visiting brothers to be present. A committee has been appointed to arrange for the reception and entertainment of the visitors.

Saanich Council Drafts Petition For Legislature

Oppose City's Effort to Secure Waterworks Expropriation Approval—Votes $100 to Relief Fund

C. of C. Protests Again

The Saanich Council last night went into private session at the conclusion of its consideration of many business matters, and discussed and prepared the terms of the petition which it will present to the Provincial Legislature in an effort to block the application of Victoria City for legislative endorsement of the Esquimalt Waterworks expropriation.

Representatives of the press, who had attended the session of the Council, up to the time that the Council went into committee to consider water matters, were sequestered from the private meeting, and no statement was issued at the end of the committee gathering.

The sum of $100 was voted by the Council to the Mayor of Victoria's Fund for the relief of dependents of those men who lost their lives in the recent Bentinck Island accident. Chief of Police Thomas Hastings informed the Council that the three Saanich families affected by the sea tragedy were being aided by the fund temporarily. The City of Victoria has contributed the sum of $250 towards the Mayor's Fund.

Memorial Avenue
The directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce protested last night to the Saanich Council for the second time against the disfigurement of Memorial Avenue by the erection of telegraph, telephone or electric light poles. A copy of this will be forwarded to the local telegraph, telephone and electric light companies.

Dangerous Intersection
On the suggestion of Councillor H. H. Barker, the clerk was instructed to communicate with the Victoria City Council regarding the advisability of establishing parking regulations on Tenth Avenue, at the intersection of Quadra Street. Councillor Kirkham pointed out the fact that this corner was very dangerous, and since that date Saanich has issued rules concerning parking there.

Ward Four Ratepayers' Association informed the Council that it had endorsed the following resolution: (1) That the Association approves the offer for water by Saanich to Victoria of six, seven, eight cents per 1,000 gallons. (2) That the Association views with amazement Victoria's proposal to charge Saanich ten cents per 1,000 gallons, it being estimated that water at the latter rate, especially in view of the city's promise to Gordon Head of cheap water.

Bill Against Cemetery Body
The Council was informed by Clerk Sewell that Saanich's total bill against the Board of Cemetery Trustees to the end of 1924 was $11,447.25. The works of the Board of Cemetery Trustees had been paid regularly and were not included in the above figure. The clerk's letter was laid on the table.

Premier Oliver sent the Saanich Council a copy of an Act respecting town planning. The Council referred action on the suggested legislation until a later meeting.

The Saanich police invited members of the Council to attend the annual ball of the department, which will be held on Wednesday night next, at the Agricultural Hall, Saanichton. The invitation was accepted.

Police Overlooked Contract

The contract for overcoats for the Saanich policemen was awarded to Mr. R. Petticrew, a Saanich resident, whose tender of $185 was the lowest submitted.

Depression Charged To Hon. Mr. Meighen

Liberal Speakers at Sluggetts, West Saanich, Condemn Tory Policies

Three Liberal speakers, Messrs. W. Percy Marchant, David Ramsay and N. W. Whittaker, gave addresses last night at the meeting held in the interests of Mr. T. B. Booth, Liberal candidate in the Nanaimo riding, at Sluggetts. Mr. John Sluggetts was chairman.

Mr. Ramsay dealt largely with the tariff issue, and claimed that British Columbia fruit growers and poultrymen would secure far more benefit through equalization of freight rates and a general betterment of marketing conditions than they could hope to gain through an upward revision of the tariff.

Mr. Whittaker charged up much of the depression which has existed in Canada to the pessimistic utterances of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Conservative leader. Mr. Meighen's talk, he said, has acted as a deterrent to Canada's progress through generating dissatisfaction among young Canadians and discouraging the entry of outside capital. He had caused many people to believe that conditions were worse in the Dominion than they really were. Mr. Whittaker predicted that Mr. Booth would be elected over his Conservative opponent, Mr. C. H. Dickie, by a handsome majority.

Mr. Marchant dealt with the record of the Mackenzie King Government, and asserted that conditions throughout Canada had shown steady improvement since the election of the Liberals to power at Ottawa in 1921.

Prohibition was adopted in the House of Commons in 1917 by Act of Congress.

One of the Big Surprises at the Radio Show

The New Westinghouse Radiola "25"

The Westinghouse Radiola "25" is a second-harmonic, six-tube Super-Heterodyne. This circuit is firmly entrenched as a permanent feature of the Westinghouse line because experience has demonstrated that it meets every demand of the broadcast listener, with respect to selectivity, distance-getting capabilities, volume and distortionless reproduction.

It is equipped with the new Radiotron AX-120 dry battery power amplifier, thus giving volume in excess of the average type of radio receiver operated by storage batteries.

As in the case of all Westinghouse Super-Heterodynes, no antenna is required. Price,

COLUMBIA Members of Hollywood's THEATRE detective bureau, working in co-operation with a member of Scotland Yard, helped in the making of House Peters' current starring vehicle, "Raffles," the Universal-Jewel feature now being shown at the Columbia Theatre. "Raffles," adapted from the sensational amateur crackman stories written by Ernest William Hornung and Eugene Presbury, is acclaimed to be a most authentic detective tale. For the purpose of detail and local color, real sleuths gave their assistance in the filming of the play. King Baggot, who directed the production, also solicited the help and advice of a member of Scotland Yard who was sojourning in California during the filming of "Raffles."

COLISEUM Tonight is the last night THEATRE audiences will have of witnessing such a great attraction as that offered this week. There is Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Yeomen of the Guard," with its lifting refrain and rollicking choruses on the boards. The Victoria-made film, "Romanic Rowena," will be shown for the last time, and then there is a feature film starring Margaret Livingston in "The Chorus Lady." "The Yeomen of the Guard" has been cordially received all week. May Rodwell, Eva Knight and Ruth Hamilton are given the opportunity to wear pretty dresses, and Will Marshall, Frank Allwood, George Brydon and George Olson are resplendent in gay uniforms.

DOMINION The struggle with the THEATRE elements that is portrayed so vividly in "The White Desert," which is playing at the Dominion Theatre, was encountered by the Regina Barker company when it filmed the production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Claire Windsor in playing a leading role, and according to advance information, she has given one of her finest performances in this production. Pat O'Malley is said to have made a definite bid to be credited with being one of the screen's greatest actors as the result of his efforts. Robert Fraser, Matthew Betz and Frank Currier are other members of the cast who have come in for quite a bit of favorable advance notice.

CAPITOL Constantine Talmadge plays her most unique role in "Her Sister From Paris," the new Joseph M. Bohne production, which First National is offering at the Capitol Theatre. For the first time in her life she acts the part of her own sister. The story has to do with the exploits of a young and charming—although too thoroughly domesticated—wife, who educates her husband into showing his love for her. To do it she impersonates her madcap sister from Paris, who has become nationally noted as a dancer. In her first character she is unable to hold her husband's love, in her second character she charms him so completely that he even elopes with her, thinking she is her sister!

PLAYHOUSE "Tormont" is delighting hundreds of persons this week, paradoxical as it sounds. For "Tormont" in this particular instance is a tragedy, but painful. It is the fascinating First National picture showing at the Playhouse Theatre, and it is "very easy to take." The production is well named, for it involves the torment of the Russian revolution, the torment of the Japanese earthquake, the torment of guilty conscience, the torment of robbery, and last, but not least, the torment of love. The principal roles are splendidly enacted by Owen Moore, Beulah Love, Jean Harlow, Maude George and Morgan Wallace.

"The Gold Rush,"
Charlie Chaplin's
Great Laugh Producer

"The Gold Rush," appearing at the Dominion Theatre next week, is really Charlie Chaplin's screened autobiography, symbolized against the background of Alaskan gold rush days. The stirring days of the Klondike rushes, the hardships endured by the pioneers who journeyed to that ice-bound country, are depicted with intense realism by one who in his early life has had "live" through the tragedy of hunger and misery. "Chilkoot Pass," that famous gateway to the great Klondike cut through the snows over a precipitous mountain side, the pass which struck terror in the heart of the bravest, and where many faltered, has been duplicated and its hardships re-enacted by one who in the first stages of his career had to fight his way inch by inch in a tremendous struggle for recognition and final material ease. "White Cargo" Appears At Royal Victoria For Three Nights

The well-known producer, Earl Carroll, has given to the stage something new in theatrical endeavor. "White Cargo," dramatized by Leon Gordon from Ida Vere Stimson's book, "Hells Playground," brings to the stage a play of tropical life. It shows the sun-cursed regions where white men go forth as conquerors and where only the most hardy are victors. The play is a story of the stark, barbed cruelty of existence in the jungle lands. "White Cargo," with its original cast and production, which ran for over three years at Daly's Theatre, New York; two years at the Court Theatre, Chicago, and at the Playhouse, London, will be the attraction at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 29, 30 and 31, with special Saturday matinee.

Commercial Travelers Listen to Address on Canada's Progress

Addressing the members of the United Commercial Travelers at the luncheon yesterday, Mr. E. C. Nicholson, president of the Canadian Commercial Travelers Association, had made in its short history since Confederation. He contended that no other country had shown the same development in various lines in the same time, not even the United States. Mr. Nicholson said there was nothing to fear with respect to differences that might from time to time arise between different parts of the Dominion. These could all be solved, and controversies and rivalries between sections of the country were but common to the Anglo-Saxon character. Those people, however, always found a way out of these difficulties.

There was a good attendance at the gathering, about fifty sitting down to the luncheon, which was held in Spencer's restaurant.

Churches of Many Faiths Broadcast

Radio Is Making for Religious Tolerance in Broadcasting Gospel, Preachers Aver

SEATTLE, Oct. 24.—More than thirty religious denominations represented in this country, churches of twenty faiths own and operate broadcasting stations, through which the gospel is disseminated to their members and the public. Thus radio is making for greater religious tolerance, broadening the perspective of those who believe in God and enlightening those who fall to do so. Practically every other broadcaster in the country transmits regularly or occasionally from one or more churches.

All told, sixty-two churches are licensed to broadcast, as well as several stations operated privately by ministers and divines, and some organizations like the Y.M.C.A. This is a very small percentage out of more than 235,000 churches located in the United States, but is representative. The broadcasting of religious talks and doctrines takes place in twenty-six states, befitting church members who cannot attend and also unattached individuals.

Numerically, the Baptists lead, operating twelve broadcasting stations, while the Presbyterians follow with nine; the Episcopalians and Methodists have five each, and the Congregationalists, Christians and Methodists have four each. The other thirteen denominations are represented on the air by one or two stations.

As far as is recorded in the Department of Commerce files, there appear to be no stations owned or operated by either the Catholics or the Unitarians. Scientists, although local churches are known to have broadcast their services through privately owned stations. In New York the Protestant Fathers have applied for a broadcast licence and await a wave length.

For the first time in history a microphone was recently installed in St. Peter's at Rome, and the ceremonies, including a speech by the Pope, were broadcast. Incidentally, by means of loud speakers, all the people in the great edifice heard the ceremonies distinctly, probably for the first time.

Another Floor To Be Laid for Local Dancers

Crystal Garden Is to Be Improved, Mr. Basil Gardom, Engineer of C.P.R. Hotels, Announces on Arrival

Plans for Entertainment

Some improvements are contemplated at the Crystal Garden to make the institution of increased popularity to the public, according to Mr. Basil Gardom, supervising engineer in charge of the Western hotels of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who arrived here yesterday afternoon.

One of them, he says, will be to lay a hardwood floor for dancing in the banquet room on the ground floor, thus affording a third suitable surface in addition to the existing two dance floors above.

Mr. Gardom intends today to meet Mayor Carl Pender, members of the carnival committee, which staged the opening functions in June, and other citizens and discuss with them the arrangement of some winter function in aid of the funds of the committee, which are depleted. He hopes some attractive entertainment may be organized.

Mr. Gardom has not been here since he showed Mr. E. W. Reatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, over the building during the president's recent visit to the Coast, and he is therefore anxious to see how the arrangements are lining up for the coming winter season at this amusement centre.

Fruit Combine Charges Must Be Amplified

Produce Dealers Must Be Given Fuller Details, Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald Orders

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23.—More complete information must be furnished to fifty-three Western Canadian produce dealers, who have been arraigned in assize court on conspiracy charges in connection with illegal transactions, in which it is alleged by the crown, they were implicated, according to an order of Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald today.

No date has been fixed for the trial as yet, but tentative arrangements provide for the opening soon after the other assize work is ended in a few weeks.

Opening the argument for further particulars of the charges, Mr. E. P. Davis, defence counsel, said that the counts in the indictment were in general terms, which left the accused unable to prepare for their trial.

"If this particular the Attorney-General has seen fit to proceed without a preliminary hearing," he said, "that being so, the prisoners should be given a fair opportunity to prepare for trial. If there ever was a case where the crown knew what its case was against the accused this is the case."

Defence Without Copy of Evidence

"Have you a copy of the evidence heard by the commissioner?" inquired his lordship.

"We have applied for it in vain," explained Mr. A. McLeod Sinclair, K.C., associate defence counsel, "but the Minister of Justice has refused."

"I do not see why they should not have that evidence," remarked the judge to Mr. McRuer.

"I would be prepared to advise the Department of Labor accordingly," said crown counsel. "I cannot see any great reason why they should not have it."

"Tell them I think they should," said his lordship, "particularly when there has been no preliminary hearing."

Mr. Davis stated that the evidence totalled 4,760 foolscap pages and the defendants should not be required to go through all that to find out what the crown was prosecuting for. He said that the counts were bunched together and it was impossible to know what they had to meet. The particulars furnished by Mr. McRuer contained forty-eight clauses, he said.

Particulars Desired

"It is very patent the prosecution is anxious to help us," he remarked,

What a difference!

As different as chalk is from cheese. Some sauces are hot and pungent, others thin and watery, almost tasteless. In H.P. Sauce, oriental fruits and spices are perfectly blended with pure malt vinegar. The ingredients do not separate. Neither does any one flavor predominate. The result is a unique mellow sauce that is irresistible. After all it's the flavor that counts.

H.P. SAUCE
(House of Parliament)
Get to know the H.P. flavor.

"because in the first seventeen clauses they tell the defendants who they are, what they do and where they live." Mr. Davis stated that the crown framed its particulars in the most general way it possibly could. He added that the time over which the charges extend in five years and the areas, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

"If they allege we violated contracts, they must know what contracts they refer to," he contended.

"What we want to get at is the line of evidence so we may know what to meet," said Mr. Davis.

"You are not entitled to know their evidence," interposed his lordship.

"No, I know that. I mean the matters in evidence," rejoined counsel.

He asked why the prosecution could not get out any overt acts. The transactions should be identified in some way, he contended.

Crown Thinks Enough Said

"In conspiracy the offence is conspiracy," argued Mr. McRuer. "It is not necessary to prove overt acts. You have two lines of conduct from which the jury draw the inference that there was a conspiracy. I have given a general substance of the overt acts. It is a continuing conspiracy. The conspiracy continued for five years, probably longer. When one person takes part in a conspiracy he takes part in the whole offence. I submit our particulars give reasonable information of the charge. We are not compelled to give dates, time and places of the overt acts."

Mr. McRuer stated that it was necessary to recite the names of individuals and companies whom the crown has implicated, because it "was a criminal conspiracy to set up an unlawful machinery through which they were marketing fruit."

"If I had to give times and places contained in the companies' books. We can't isolate one transaction and say it was an overt act. They threw out a chain of ostensible brokerage houses, while in reality they were leased with the jobbers."

Crown counsel stated that while he had in his possession certain of defendant's records, "the major part of their records have been destroyed or taken away. The key records kept in Vancouver have been taken away to the United States."

Mr. Justice McDonald suggested that crown counsel should give the names of those whom he principally relied on to prove his case.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23.—Promises to fruit brokers who testified at the government's early investigations into charges of conspiracy and syndicalism in fruit marketing that they could tell their story in secrecy came to light at the assizes today. The crown objected to handing over certain information to the defence.

Mr. Justice McDonald, before Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald by E. P. Davis, K.C., for further and better particulars "in connection with the conspiracy charges against an alleged combine."

"I don't see why you fellows don't get together," declared the court, adjourning the case.

Victoria Artist Honored

The many Victorians who have watched with interest the growing reputation of the young artist, Mr. Robin Watt, M.C., son of Mrs. O. M. Watt, formerly of Victoria, will be pleased at his recent further success in London in connection with the exhibition of paintings by army officers. Apparently specializing in portraiture, his pictures of Lieutenant-General Sir Arthur Currie, the Bishop of Willesden (formerly Rt. Rev. W. W. Perrin, Bishop of Columbia), and of the artist's own mother, Mrs. Watt, have provoked very favorable notice among the leading art critics of London, and The London Times carried a reproduction of one of the portraits. Mr. Watt received his early schooling here and while still a young boy showed such talent in this particular branch of art that he was taken to the Old Land and given the advantages of the best studios, with results which must be entirely gratifying to his many friends.

Weddings

McNair-Burnett

A pretty wedding was celebrated at St. Paul's Presbyterian Manse, Victoria West, on Thursday, when the Rev. J. B. Patterson united in marriage Mr. Robert Murray Whitney McNair of Vancouver, and Miss Margaret Evelyn Burnett, of Belton Avenue. The bride was charming in a frock of pale coral georgette, trimmed with brilliant, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The matron of honor, Mrs. William Burnett, wore black georgette, headed in altered. William Burnett was best man. After a honeymoon spent in the States, Mr. and Mrs. McNair will reside in Vancouver.

Hon. Dr. Tolmie to Speak on Campaign Issues at Campbell Building Rooms

Ladies interested in the issues of the present election campaign will have an opportunity to hear them explained by Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie at a meeting to be held specially in their interests at the Liberal-Conservative Rooms, Campbell Building, at 3 p.m. today. The gathering is expected to be well attended owing to the growing concern of women about political affairs, and especially in view of the close approach of the Federal election. There will be other speakers as well as Dr. Tolmie. The Liberal-Conservative Women's Club will serve tea during the afternoon, which will take the form of a social reunion, to which all are cordially invited.

British Scientist Seeks Missing King in Africa

"There were many different types of dinosaurs," the explorer explained, "which can be divided roughly into two groups, the carnivorous and the vegetarian. It is the latter variety whose bones are found so extensively in Tanganyika. They were even more massive than their more ferocious relatives and spent most of their lives in the broad river or large lake which now flows over the Tanganyika territory.

Lived in Water

"These monsters lived practically submerged, only raising their long necks from the water to feed on seaweed and leaves along the banks. Occasionally they would crawl out on the bank to lay their eggs. Quite recently, of course, about forty eggs of the dinosaur were found in Mongolia by Mr. Roy Andrews, head of the third American expedition in that country. One of these eggs measured 21 inches in length, 14 inches in height and 18 inches in width. "One can get some idea of the enormous size of these prehistoric reptiles by remembering that eighty feet was merely a mild length for a healthy dinosaur. The biggest of these creatures were very cowardly and would have proved an easy prey to mankind if they had ever lived out of water. The smaller land-living ones, however, were ferocious and would attack either man or beast. Migod believes that as the river or large lake in which the Tendaguru dinosaur existed gradually dried up, it left the giant creatures living in a muddy mixture in which they were unable to push about and feed. When the water entirely disappeared, the dinosaur could no longer move and of course died. In time, mud covered over this clay, leaving the remains as they are found today.

Will Write Book

The explorer intends to describe the results of his expedition in a book which he will write on his return to England in about a year's time. He is already the author of many works on Africa, his latest being "Through British Cameroon. He is also an authority on the native dialects of West Africa, having been in the Gold Coast service for some time.

"My book," he said, "will be strictly devoted to the expedition. All personal adventures will be excluded from it, especially the 'human interest' stories of which the public is so fond."

Asked if he had had any specially exciting adventures with wild animals, Migod smiled and replied that unless you "tickled the nose" of a lion or other denizen of the jungle, there was very little chance of its attacking you.

Rape African Tales

"I consider such tales of African adventures as one commonly reads," he said, "to be purely the fruit of the author's imagination, or lack of experience. If you are looking for trouble, you will always get it. I lived in the same house with a cobra for two weeks. We were the best of friends. He tried to kill my son, but never attempted to injure me."

"As for the bands of murderous natives such as one reads of, I have never seen any. The natives I have met were all most friendly, offering me presents and bringing their black babies for me to look at. If the latter were good looking, I gave them threepence. No, I am afraid the public will get little 'human interest' from me. This does not mean, however, that I will write about our expedition in a language that the average reader will not understand, for I am a great lover of simplicity."

Should the Tendaguru site not prove as satisfactory as he hopes, Migod intends to look for a more favorable one. He believes that there are many further to the north. Especially at Lake Nyassa, there is known to be a large quantity of dinosaurian remains.

Possibly the discoveries that will be made will revolutionize research on these lines, as excavation in Africa for scientific purposes is still in its infancy.

EDMONTON, Oct. 23.—Announcement that citizens of Calgary have already donated $27,000 toward the $100,000 fund required by the Catholics of Alberta for the building of a Catholic college to be affiliated with the University of Alberta, was made at a banquet held here last night, which inaugurated the campaign in Edmonton and district.

The Carnegie Fund Trusts will put up $100,000 provided Alberta puts up $100,000, and a college will be erected in affiliation with the university, which will cater particularly to students of the Catholic faith, who will take their general academic studies through the regular university classes.

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

ROSLYN RIDGEWAY, a young woman, who has been married for two years, is the heroine of the story. She is a beautiful, intelligent, and ambitious woman, who is determined to make a name for herself in the world. She is the daughter of a wealthy family, and has been educated at one of the best universities in the country. She is now living in a small, comfortable house in the city, and is working as a secretary for a large business firm.

LYDIA, a young woman, who is the friend of Roslyn, is also a character in the story. She is a beautiful, intelligent, and ambitious woman, who is determined to make a name for herself in the world. She is the daughter of a wealthy family, and has been educated at one of the best universities in the country. She is now living in a small, comfortable house in the city, and is working as a secretary for a large business firm.

LYDIA, a young woman, who is the friend of Roslyn, is also a character in the story. She is a beautiful, intelligent, and ambitious woman, who is determined to make a name for herself in the world. She is the daughter of a wealthy family, and has been educated at one of the best universities in the country. She is now living in a small, comfortable house in the city, and is working as a secretary for a large business firm.

CHAPTER LXIX

A Reckoning

"Brice was censured at the inquest," continued the young man briefly. "There were callous letters he had written—and then the girl's parting message to him."

"And you mean that he has been trying to influence Roslyn?" Mrs. Ridgeway's face was anxious. "I thought he was making himself rather conspicuous in dancing attendance on her—but you were away so much—and she is young and ignorant—that cliff adventure odd, though I'd trust Roslyn's integrity to the uttermost."

Her son's face had a shamed look. "I've been a fool—and worse. I see that now, when it's too late. I—oh, it's difficult to express—but I'm fond of her—I'm not nearly good enough for a girl like Roslyn—if only I had a—second chance."

The mother's heart leapt with a new hope.

"And Lydia Harbrook?" Her voice was gentle and sympathetic now. "Is all that over and done with, Lydia? Roslyn is worth a hundred Lydias."

"I know she is. I've been blind as a bat. She can't respect me."

"She loves you, Lydia. You've made her suffer, but I know she loves you still. And she has a splendid, noble nature. She could have ruined Lydia Harbrook, but she wouldn't stoop to such a thing."

"I don't quite understand." The young man had a puzzled air.

Mrs. Ridgeway hesitated, then she said:

"It will be a shock to you to hear that Lydia Harbrook. A syringe was found in her bedroom, and then cocaine. It was cocaine, because I took the packet to the drug store, and the druggist proved it was. Besides, have you ever noticed the tiny marks on Lydia's arms? Have you ever wondered at her unflagging gaiety, when gaiety is an asset? Have you ever marked the uncanny brilliance of her eyes, and the way she looks at one and almost through one at certain times? Then her reactions? Lydia can go as far as a pricked balloon. And she seems to be losing the ethical distinction between right and wrong."

Lydia was stunned.

"Lydia—drugs? It's unbelievable!"

Mrs. Ridgeway said:

"Roslyn discovered her in the very act. But it was not till I myself found out that the child even admitted the truth about Lydia. It was noble, though mistaken, of Roslyn to shield her, considering that Lydia's manner towards the child, and Lydia's appropriation of yourself, and Lydia's insolence, have been unbearable."

Lydia almost groaned aloud in heaviness of spirit.

The deed was done now. Roslyn, his girl-wife—gone!

"Have you no idea of her whereabouts, mother? I'd take the car at once."

"She merely stated in her note, which arrived this morning, that she had gone off with old Annie for a holiday somewhere, and would send her address later. I've a conviction, Lydia, that the child is wounded to the heart, and like all hurt creatures, wants to hide herself for a while. I don't blame her."

"Nor do I. I only blame myself. And—" with sudden heat—"I blame that swine Brice. He's turned her against me. He's—"

"Steady. Be honest, Lydia. Want your own behavior sufficient in itself to change Roslyn towards you, if it were possible she should be changed? She's staunch and loyal and sincere."

"But she's ignorant of the world—and trusting. And a man like Brice—"

"Then get after Brice. Not that you can possibly think he's worth Roslyn."

"He's capable of anything. The likeliest sort of woe me up to the fact that I've tolerated men about the place I never ought to have introduced either to you or Roslyn. I've been damned careless and selfish."

His mother touched him on the arm with a gesture of affection that was rare in her.

"Come, come, Lydia! It isn't too late yet!"

Like a man possessed, he strode out of the house so beautifully decorated with his wife's money, following a blind instinct that might lead him to her.

In the lobby of Lydia's hotel he faced the erstwhile charmer.

"Don't snap my head off, Lydia! I've nothing to do with this affair. Surely you're capable of looking after your own wife without trying to rope me in as a nursemaid. And Lydia's lips curled insolently.

He glared at her in wrath. Was this cold, callous creature the warm, flesh-and-blood woman he had once loved madly?

But the spell was broken now. The scales were lifted from his eyes, and he saw her in true colors.

"Have you any idea where Roslyn is?" he rapped out like a pistol shot.

Lydia put her two hands to her eyes in pretended dismay.

"Don't shout at me!" Then she added with malice: "Maybe I've a fair idea where your wife is; maybe I've more than a fair idea that she's not alone."

"Speak out! But don't insult her. Where are your manners?"

"Manners be damned! What do you know? Out with it!"

Lydia led him to a more secluded corner, and proceeded, with maddening deliberation, to light a cigarette.

He refused one, watching her with an almost positive dislike. The reaction against her influence had been absolute. She realized it.

She would hurt him all she could. "I won't beat about the bush. But don't murder me. It's Rupert Brice you ought to get after. He's the snake in the grass, if you only knew it."

"Well?" Lydia's hands were trembling, as though he yearned to get them on Brice's throat.

Lydia lowered her voice discreetly. "I'm not supposed to know much about it, but from something Rupert said only a day or two ago, he's more than a little bit interested in your wife. And I'm afraid, strange as it may seem to a husband of your charm (though, of course, these fascinations haven't been leveled much in his direction, have they?), that your wife reciprocates Brice's interest."

"You lie!" said Lydia in her very face. "You lie!"

Lydia laughed shrilly. She rose. "Go down to the marshland inn, you fool, and you'll find them both together there. Then give me the lie direct again. I know what I know, and your precious wife is—"

But Lydia, like a man demoralized, had traversed the lounge in two strides to the exit and was gone.

Grain Elevator Will Be Equal to All Demands

done, but they did not intend anything to interfere with the principle of producers' control.

Plan of Building

Answering the question with regard to the character of the building, he pointed out there was a great deal of misunderstanding with regard to the plan of the building. It was not to be a grain elevator, but a warehouse for the storage of grain. It was to be built on a site of about 100 acres, and was to be capable of storing 100,000 bushels of grain. It was to be built on a site of about 100 acres, and was to be capable of storing 100,000 bushels of grain.

Supply and Rates

Mr. Mooney explained that the source of supply was apparently somewhat misunderstood on the Coast. Experience showed there was a great deal of fluctuation between Fall and Winter shipments of grain on the Great Lakes. When grain was flowing eastward with great volume, it was not possible to push westward the point of profitable shipment considerably west of Central Saskatchewan, while when the freese-up came and grain began to move to the Pacific Coast, the profitable point for this traffic moved considerably eastward.

Equalization of freight rates would be an important factor, and there was also the question of terminal rail rates as between Mainland terminal points and Victoria. He had met the Board of Canadian National Railways in Montreal and had been promised equal terminal rates and also sufficient freight cars to take care of the peak capacity at the elevator. The company had also promised all the necessary track adjustments in Victoria entailed in the project.

Soviet Council Orders Watch on Concessions

MOSCOW, Oct. 23.—By a special decree the Council of Commissars has ordered the chief concession committee to organize a permanent commission to watch the carrying out of the concessionary agreements entered into by foreign concessionaries with the Soviet government and to provide for the removal of any possible obstacles which might hinder the normal work of the concessionary enterprises.

The decree is prompted by the growing number of concessions granted by the Soviet government and the commencement of actual operations, it is stated.

The new commission is also charged to watch the carrying out by the respective state organizations and institutions of all obligations undertaken by them in regard to the concessionary contracts, to discuss all questions arising in connection with the carrying out of the terms of the contracts which cannot be regulated independently by the individual organizations, and periodically to draw up reports and supply reviews of the working of the concessionary concerns to the central authorities.

Old Custom of Holding Moots to Be Revived

LONDON, Oct. 23.—A revival of the old custom of holding "moots" in the Middle Temple is being planned for November.

The moot is a mock trial designed to give men in the legal profession—and now women—the opportunity of arguing legal problems arising from established facts, in the form in which cases are argued in the Court of Appeal. Two counsel are assigned for each side and when they have put their case, the judge gives judgment. Justice Sankey has promised to preside over the first moot.

This is considered to be one of the best methods of giving junior counsel an opportunity of putting and arguing a case, as well as gathering hints regarding procedure, and pitfalls to be avoided when taking a case into the glare of a public court.

London Expects to Have World's Finest Airdrome

CROYDON, Oct. 23.—A scheme, which it is stated will make the London terminal airdrome the finest commercial station in the world, and which will cost nearly a quarter of a million pounds, has now been begun in earnest.

Much work will have to be done before the airdrome is complete. Trees and hedges are being removed and a road diverted in order to take in an adjoining stretch of land. When this additional ground becomes available the air express will have a clear unobstructed space of between two and three miles upon which to take off and alight.

Tax Sale Shows Better Results Than Last Year

Seventy-Nine Properties Are Disposed of for Over $21,000, City Treasurer E. C. Smith States

Disposal Still Continues

The annual Victoria city tax sale this year has completely shattered the 1924 figure, according to City Treasurer Edwin C. Smith, who conducted the sale each morning during the last couple of weeks. Not only has this year's sale resulted in more lots being disposed of, but the prices obtained for the properties were higher than those secured during the 1924 sale.

The sale opened on September 30 last, when the highest prices were obtained during any single day of its progress. Fourteen lots were disposed of on that occasion, the sale netting the sum of $5,405.91 for the city treasury.

Since that date, the sale has been continued, and will likely not conclude for another week or so yet.

No less than seventy-nine parcels of property, the taxes on which remained unpaid by their owners, have been sold by Mr. Smith, the total price received by the city through such sales being $21,419.37, which is considerably in excess of the past year's results.

The figures of the sale and the amount of parcels sold on each occasion are as follows:

Amount Received	Parcels Sold
$5,405.91	14
$2,187.90	4
$3,464.20	10
$37.45	2

Ganges Chapter To Hold Function

Fancy Dress Ball Will Be Held on Nov. 20—Personal News of Salt Spring Island

SALT SPRING ISLAND, Oct. 23.—After summer recess the Ganges Chapter, I.O.D.E., resumed their monthly meetings on Wednesday, in the I.O.D.E. room at Ganges. The regent, Mrs. W. E. Scott, was in the chair. Mrs. Frank Crofton, who has taken over the office of treasurer since Mrs. Cecil Abbott's resignation on leaving the island, took up her duties for the first time.

Two new members were introduced to the Chapter, Mrs. J. R. Jones and Miss Florence Reid. It was proposed, seconded and carried that a fancy dress ball should be organized by the Chapter, and a committee for that purpose was formed, including Mrs. Frank Crofton, Mrs. V. C. Best, Mrs. J. R. Jones, Mrs. Percy Best and Mrs. A. J. Smith. The ball is to take place in November, at the Mahon Hall, Ganges, and half the proceeds derived from the ball will be given as a donation to the Agricultural Association towards the hall's new entrance, to be placed at the other end of the building to the present one on the main road. After other business was discussed, tea was provided and served by Mrs. W. E. Scott and Mrs. P. Best. At a subsequent meeting, held on Tuesday, it was decided that the fancy dress dance should be held on Friday, November 20, when Hunt's orchestra, from Victoria, will be in attendance.

The North Salt Spring Tennis Club recently held a small white drive and dance at the Settlement Hall, which was prettily decorated for the occasion. An enjoyable time was spent, although the attendance, owing to the bad fog, was not as large as expected. Ten tables took part and Mr. J. D. Halley acted as M.C. The gentlemen's first prize was won by Mr. Jack Abbott, second by Mrs. P. C. Turner, while Mr. R. O. King and Mrs. Taylor received the booby prizes. The dance which followed was kept up till 2:30 a.m.

Mr. George Turner, of "Woodhill," Ganges, has been spending ten days in Oakland, California, having been called there owing to the serious illness of his father, now fortunately out of danger. Mr. Turner is expected home at the end of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walter, of Ganges, arrived home on Tuesday, after a four-months' visit to relatives and friends in the Old Country.

Mrs. F. C. Turner, of Ganges, left on Thursday for a few days' visit to Vancouver.

Mrs. Layard, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Layard and baby returned home to Deep Cove on Tuesday, after a few days' visit to Salt Spring, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Wilson at "Barnsbury."

After a few weeks' visit to Kelowna, Miss Scott, of "Rockridge," Ganges, arrived home on Tuesday.

Mr. Gilbert H. Almslie, who has been resident at Ganges for the last year or two, left recently for the Old Country, where he intends to make his home for the future.

After five weeks' spent on the island, Mr. W. G. Wear, who has been the guest of Mr. J. Akerman, North Salt Spring, left on Wednesday for Duncan.

Sidney Social Club Plays Progressive 500

SIDNEY, Oct. 23.—The regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's and Holy Trinity was held on Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Gilman, Second Street, with a good attendance. Mrs. Salmon read the financial report, and Mrs. Gilman gave a report on the church women on "The Forward Movement." Mrs. Salmon, who was a delegate to the Diocesan Board meeting in Vancouver, gave an interesting report of this gathering. The nomination of officers then took place. The next meeting, which will be the annual one, will be held in Matthew's Hall, Mrs. Philip being the hostess. The meeting then adjourned, and dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Gilman.

The regular meeting of the North Saanich Social Club was held in the club rooms, School Cross Road. There were twelve tables of progressive five hundred, and three independent tables. The ladies' prize was won by Mrs. Gilman, and the gentlemen's by Mr. J. Butler. At the conclusion of the card game an enjoyable dance was held, the music being supplied by Mrs. G. McLean, in her usual excellent manner. Plans for arrangements were made for the smoker to be held on Tuesday, October 27, at the club rooms. Cards will in future commence at eight o'clock, instead of eight-thirty, in order to leave more time for the dancing. The weekly dancing class has now been changed to Thursday evenings, instead of Tuesday, as formerly. An effort is now being made by the club to form a band and orchestra, under the direction of Handmaster Brett, who has obtained the services of an instructor on stringed instruments to assist him.

Mr. Victor Goddard is enjoying a vacation in Juneau, Alaska. Mrs. J. Robinson and family, Baxan Bay, have moved to Victoria, where they will reside in the future. Mr. and Mrs. Burdett and family, of Galiano Island, have arrived in Sidney and taken up their residence on Third Street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wemyss have returned from a trip to the Prairies, after visiting in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. Mounce and family have moved to the Orchard, to the house recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Campbell and family, who have left for Victoria.

Twenty-four of the young people from Sidney attended the young folks' rally of the United Church of Victoria and district, held in the Metropolitan Church, Victoria, on Monday evening.

Prize winners at the Sidney Social Club this week were Mrs. MacAlay, Messrs. W. Crowley, R. McDonald and G. A. Cochran.

Conservatives Hold Successful Meeting

Ladysmith Electorate Hears Arguments for Return of Mr. C. H. Dickie

LADYSMITH, Oct. 23.—A meeting was held in the Ladysmith Club on Thursday evening in the interest of the Conservative candidate.

Mr. W. Anderson acted as chairman. Col. Peck, who is at length on the great benefit to be derived from a protective tariff policy.

Mr. C. P. Davis, M.P.P., endorsed the policy of protection, and impressed upon the audience the great importance of the forthcoming election, and when voting on October 29 to make their cross in favor of Mr. Dickie, Conservative candidate, who he was confident, would do his utmost to win the Dominion House, as he was returned again to Ottawa, as he had so ably done in the past.

Mr. Dickie, the candidate, declared himself optimistic and felt assured that when the results of the polls were known on the election day that he would have the honor of retaining his seat in the Dominion House, as their representative, by a much larger majority than on the former occasion. He had the interest of Canada at heart, and with his past experience would be in a position to get such legislation that would be the most advantageous to Canada.

Captain Matheson, of Esquimalt, and Mr. Leonard Tail, of Ladysmith, also gave interesting addresses, giving instances where many young men and girls had left British Columbia to reside in the United States where they had secured positions with much better remuneration and opportunity of advancement than could be offered to them at home under the existing conditions.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Wireless Towers Stand on Guard High on Ancient Wall of Peking

THE American Radio Towers, on the old wall of Peking, are manned by United States Navy operators, for the purpose of flashing wireless warnings whenever the Chinese situation menaces Americans. The towers are located near Chien Men, the main gateway into the city. If danger threatens Americans outside the walls, they will be immediately warned from the towers shown here, the United States legation at Peking has informed the State Department at Washington.

The legation itself is just under the tree-tops that can be seen to the left of the towers. The wall is forty feet high and sixty-five feet thick.

Over this wall, American and British troops fought their way to the relief of the besieged legations during the Boxer Rebellion of 1900. Conservative observers say the danger now threatening foreigners in China is ten times that of twenty-five years ago.

Trafalgar Day Ball Is Given by I.O.D.E. Chapter at Cowichan

COWICHAN STATION, Oct. 23.—The C.A.A.C. Hall presented a scene of great brilliancy Wednesday night, when the Sir Clive Phillip-Motley Chapter, I.O.D.E., gave its annual Trafalgar Day ball for the Navy League of Canada, the evening room was very artistically decorated in a most patriotic manner, the windows having curtains of red, white and blue muslin, the same scheme of decoration being carried throughout, the ceiling being draped with festoons of similar colors. The electric lights were veiled with streamers of the tri-color paper with Japanese umbrellas suspended beneath them.

The stage was transformed into a comfortable sitting-room with couches, easy chairs and masses of beautiful flowers. The dining-room looked very pretty with decorations of flowers and autumn leaves, and the supper tables were arranged with high vases of dahlias, caryophyllums and Michaelmas daisies.

A most excellent menu was provided for the most select guests by the members and friends. The Crystal Garden band, under the leadership of Mr. Watson, played with its usual verve. About 200 people were present and great praise is due to the regent and members who worked so energetically and made the ball such a success.

Central Policy Of Development Not Big Enough

Liberals Believe Different Conditions in Various Sections Require Variety in Treatment

Great Things for Victoria

Radical change of views on the part of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in connection with tariff protection was charged last night by Mr. William McK. Ivel, Liberal candidate in Victoria, speaking at the George Jay School. Mr. Ivel declared that when Mr. Meighen had been the member for Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, he had become inculcated with a certain degree with the western point of view,
and while a member for that western constituency, had stated on the floor of the House of Commons that a high protection policy was inapplicable to Canada. After losing his seat, and becoming converted to the protectionist views of Montreal, he completely changed his views, and now was advocating high protection for the Dominion.

The contention of the Liberal party
was that low tariffs would make the basic industries of Canada prosperous.
Mr. Ivel explained, and would open up new markets for the products of such industries. They would be built up,
but not at the expense of the citizens of the country.

High Tariff Costs

Raising the Canadian tariff against the United States to the level of the tariff possessed by that country would not make it easier for Canadian producers to enter the United States market, Mr. Ivel said. A general heightening of the Canadian tariff would result in injury to the policy of preferential trade with other parts of the British Empire, and would react against Canada by increasing the cost of commodities to the Canadian consumer. As an instance, he explained the difference in the price paid by Canadian farmers for Ford cars turned out by the Ford Canadian plant at Ford, Ont., and the price paid by citizens of the United States for the same car
manufactured in the Detroit factories of the Ford Company. The greater price paid by Canadians was due entirely, he claimed, to the high tariff charged against United States automobiles.

Mr. Ivel touched on Hon. Mr.
Meighen's policy in regard to Western Canada, and declared that Mr.
Meighen had said in the House of Commons that the relief in freight rates discrimination given the West by the Railway Board had been indefensible.
In comparison with that attitude, he declared that Hon. Mackenzie King,
the Liberal leader, had said that the relief given the West in the matter of rates was not only justifiable, but policy that sought to give equitable treatment to all parts of Canada.

"Equal Rights"

"The Fathers of Confederation used such principle as the main basis of union," Mr. Ivel said. "Their policy
was equal rights for all the Provinces,
and now is the time for the Canadian West to show that the policy of the Liberal party is right and their just due."

The speaker declared that Victoria was particularly interested in and affected by Mr. King's policy because of the development occurring at the Outer Wharves. The people of Victoria had voted for grain elevators recently, he pointed out, and such industries would be useless unless wheat was shipped for export from the Prairies via Victoria. For every bushel of grain now going through the port of Montreal for export, two bushels were being bonded through the United States ports of Buffalo and New York for export to Europe.
(Grain now finding its way through Buffalo, Mr. Ivel said, would be routed through the Pacific Coast
ports, and he was confident that it would be so routed once equalization
of freight rates between Western and Eastern Canada was obtained.

The development of Victoria as a grain exporting port, he said, would mean prosperity for the people of this city. Taken on a basis of population, everything being equal, and basing
his hypothesis, too, on the number of grain-laden ships that left Vancouver last year, he calculated that Victoria elevators would load from eighteen to twenty steamships a week.
Each vessel, he said, would leave from 12,000 to 100,000 in Victoria to cover fitting out charges. Nearly every ship would also spend a week
thing here on repairs, and all would provide work. Employment of a large number of men would be assured, and a big revenue would be available.

Mr. Ivel mentioned also the lumber assembly plant proposed for the Outer Wharves. The plant, he said, would cause all small island mills to ship their lumber to Victoria for shipment. Companies operating such mills would naturally do their banking in Victoria, and it naturally followed that they would pay their employees here. Victoria would thereupon secure more prosperity. The assembly plant would also supply
lumber loads for cars used in transporting grain to Victoria, thus assisting the railroads in equalization of freight charges.

The present was an exceedingly important time in the history of Victoria, Mr. Ivel said, and he asked all present to vote Liberal and assure stability and prosperity.

Mr. A. D. MacFarlane
Mr. A. D. MacFarlane, of Oak Bay, declared that the Conservatives favored a policy of centralization as opposed to the development of the separate parts of Canada, each after its best interests. He claimed that conditions in the Maritime, in Ontario and Quebec, in the Prairie Provinces and in British Columbia, had separate policies of development essential, and that, in consequence, the Conservative idea was doomed to failure.

Relative to international trade, he said that the present trend showed a falling off of trade with the United States and a substantial growth in trade with Great Britain and other Dominions of the Empire.

Mr. Caru Martin

Mr. Caru Martin dealt extensively with the immigration question, and declared that the needs of Canada
were to the United States was turning, and native sons and daughters

were coming back. In connection with the tariff question, Mr. Martin charged Mr. Meighen with changing his policy from low tariff to high tariff.

League Goes Into Action
GENEVA, Oct. 23.—The League of Nations went into action quickly today
in connection with the serious conflict of arms which has arisen between Greece and Bulgaria. Soon after he received an appeal for League intervention from the Bulgarian Government, Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League, exercising his right under the covenant, decided to convene a special session of the council at Paris, Monday afternoon.

Sir Eric got in touch with M.
Briand, the French Foreign Minister,
by telephone. Mr. Briand, as president of the council, approved the secretary-general's decision and authorized convocation of the council on French soil, instead of at Geneva, as this was best suited to meet the emergency. A high number of the council, Monday
was considered as the earliest possible
moment when the Greek and Bulgarian representatives could arrive to present their cases.

Combatants Warned
M. Briand, meanwhile, had sent telegrams to both the Bulgarian and Greek governments, emphasizing that it was their duty as members of the League not to have recourse to war,
and pointing out that the "grave consequences which under the covenant
would result from violation of the covenant's terms."

This is a warning that the countries in the dispute risk penalties if the League in case the proved aggressor insists on engaging in war.
In conclusion M. Briand exhorted
both parties not to permit new military operations and to withdraw all troops behind their respective frontiers.

Most Serious Dispute
Telegrams explaining the situation
have been sent by the League, not only to the states which are members of the council, but to all the other members of the League.

Should the Bulgarian charges of Greek invasion be proved it is regarded as probable that the League will be confronted with the most serious international dispute it has ever handled.

Bulgars Deny Guilt
The Bulgarians admit that they shot a Greek soldier dead, but they insist it was on Bulgarian soil after he had attacked a Bulgarian sentinel. They alleged tonight that Greek forces, including artillery, now have penetrated into Bulgaria in violation of a depth of ten kilometers (about six miles) along a front of more than thirty kilometers, causing eighteen Bulgarian casualties, with seven soldiers missing. They also charged that the city of Petrich has been bombarded by the Greeks. The Greek Government has not yet answered
the Bulgarian charges.

Sir Eric Drummond had planned to make an official visit to Athens on November 1, at the invitation of the Government, but League circles say it is probable he will postpone his annual trip in view of today's developments.

Base of Appeal
Bulgaria's appeal to the League
was made under Articles X and XI of the League covenant.

Article X binds the members of the League to preserve territorial integrity and political independence of all the members against external aggression.

Article XI says that "any war or threat of war which immediately affects any of the members of the League or not, is hereby declared a matter of concern to the whole League and the League shall take any action that may be deemed wise and effective to safeguard the peace of nations."

Briland News Ministers
PARIS, Oct. 23.—M. Briand had a long conference tonight with M. Car-panos and M. Morloff, respectively, the Greek and Bulgarian ministers to France, in the course of which the French Minister of Foreign Affairs
spoke both as president of the council of the League of Nations and a member of the French Government.

It is expected in diplomatic circles
that instructions will be given to the Greek troops on the Greco-Bulgarian frontier to refrain from further activities until the dispute is settled by the League of Nations.

COBURG, Oct. 23.—Fred J.
Slade was officially nominated here yesterday as a Liberal candidate for the constituency of Northumberland,
and not as a Conservative as ex-
traneously reported. His opponent is M.
E. Maybee, Conservative, who was member for the riding in the last House of Commons.

The Maharajah came with a suite

source of material delight to Geneva shopkeepers. He is reported to have spent $100,000 alone in the purchase
of watches and binoculars, with an
accent on binoculars, for which he seems to have a passion as a collector.

He developed into such a fantastic
and interesting personality that eventually to escape the crowds he was forced to leave his hotel by the kitchen door to attain his automobile unmolested.

But if the Maharajah was ever in the public eye his spouse, the Maharani, and her two ladies-in-waiting, remained in obscurity. They went not to receptions, dinners or balls, ate their meals in the seclusion
of their apartments, and only emerged for drives in closed motor-

The Masterpiece of the year!

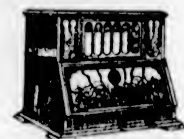

THE DeForest Model R5 depicted above
typifies the achievements on which three of the most successful organizations
in the Radio industry have been working.
This five-tube receiver utilizes a special type of tuned radio frequency amplification—a circuit with unique tone-recreating qualities.

Gone are all the "squeaks," "howls"
and "hisses." It instantly gives the studio programme, clean and clear, with life-like realism. Gone is the uncertainty and guess-work—you can "log" this set with precision,
getting a station at a fixed point on the scale every time.

Gone is the untidy mess of wires and exposed batteries, the ugly black panel, the mechanical look. Instead—a compact unit,
batteries all enclosed in a beautiful cabinet
fashioned in two-tone mahogany by Canada's finest furniture craftsmen. A dull satin-black panel from which the indicating marks gleam like burnished gold.

The price—like every model in the dollar-for-dollar value never before available in Canada.

Serene Geneva Is Stirred at Arrival of Rich Indian Ruler

GENEVA, Oct. 24.—So accustomed
is Geneva to greatness within its borders that it rarely gets excited over an important new-comer, but it awoke with sudden interest with the arrival of the Maharajah of Patiala,
who came as one of the Indian delegates to the League of Nations assembly. The Maharajah is credited with being the world's richest real-estate.

In the ballrooms of the hotels
where various delegations gave receptions with dancing a feature, the Maharajah was the centre of attraction. He was dressed in a rich, gold-embroidered uniform, and his body
he waited gracefully with some of the fairest of the ladies present.
His bosom glittered with precious pendants, and in the lobes of his ears shone huge pearls encircled with diamonds.

The Maharajah came with a suite of fourteen persons. He proved a source of material delight to Gene-
va shopkeepers. He is reported to have
spent $100,000 alone in the purchase
of watches and binoculars, with an
accent on binoculars, for which he

Experiments Made With Wind as Source For Rural Power

AMES, Ia., Oct. 23.—The possibility of using wind as a source of farm power is being experimented with by the agricultural engineering faculty at Iowa State College.

A windmill on the top of a 100-foot steel tower with the generator attached, generated 200 kilowatt hours
in thirty days. The average farm home does not use more than twenty-five kilowatt hours a month.

The velocity and distribution of the wind will be the determining factor,
said Mr. Fred C. Kenton. Power generated by the windmill can be used for almost any activity on the farm.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—"Apple week"
starts October 31. It is a campaign organized by the Federal Department of Agriculture and the Canadian Horticultural Council. "Give them apples"
will be the slogan of the week, and the objective is "A barrel of apples in every home."

is ended this way

WITH the old-time "sanitary pad" women realize their constant danger of offense. And thus spend unhappy days.

"KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

You dine, dance, motor for hours in shortest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops ALL danger of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No

Week-End Profit-Taking Fails to Stem Advance—Trading Heavy

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Heavy week-end profit taking failed to stem the rising tide of today's stock market. The advance which was spread over a broad list, ranged from one to six points in the active issues, with even larger gains in some of the volatile specialties. Trading again approximated two and a half million shares, making it the tenth consecutive two-million-share session.

The closing was featured by a national rally in Chandler Motors, which was run up nearly fifty points to a new high record at fifty-two, often jumping a point or more between sales.

Paige-Detroit Strong

Other motors also received good buying support.

Strength in Paige-Detroit, which advanced three points to a new high record at 31½, was associated with unconfirmed rumors that Dodge Brothers were negotiating for control.

Steel shares responded to reports of an increase in incoming orders. United States Steel common advanced more than two points to 123½. Bethlehem closed two points higher at 44, and Crucible, Gulf States and Republic advanced a point or two. United States Cast Iron Pipe soared 1½ points to 210.

Industries buoyant

buoyancy again developed in a number of high-priced industries. Call money was steady at 4½ per cent all day. Time money rates relaxed, sixty to ninety-day funding being quoted on a flat 4½ per cent basis instead of 4½ to 5, with some larger maturities also available at the lower figure. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Total sales were 2,417,400 shares. The pace of bond trading slackened today with prices barely holding their own as numerous speculative readjustments took place. Investment buying was limited to a few high-grade railroad bonds, while high-grade corporate issues affected by special news developments.
